Nepal King to Speak at Asilomar

Special to The Chronicle

ASILOMAR (Monterey county), May 4—The King of Nepal, a Lebanese Ambassador and a British member of Parliament will be among speakers at the 14th annual World Affairs Conference opening here Friday.

The foreign visitors and a distinguished list of American experts will explore the problems of "competitive co-existence" at the three-day meeting.

Speakers will include King Mahendra of Nepal, Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon and Paul Bryan of Great Britain.

Homecoming at Lick-Wilmerding

Lick-Wilmerding-Lux alumni will hold their annual homecoming tomorrow at the Lick-Wilmerding School, 755 Ocean avenue.

The program starts at 5:30 p. m., with a dinner at 6:15. Reservations can be made at the school.

King Mahendra and Dr. Malik will address the conference Saturday night.

The Nepalese monarch will explain how his Himalayan mountain kingdom seeks to maintain its independence with Communist-controlled Tibet on one border and India on another.

The 39-year-old King, whose full name is Mahendra Bir Bikram Shah Deva, and his wife, Queen Ratna Rajya Lakshmi Sha, are on a six-week state visit to the United States.

Dr. Malik, president of the 13th United Nations General Assembly, will speak on the dialectic of co-existence, a subject on which he is a foremost authority.

Bryan, deputy whip of the Conservative party in Parliament, will express the British view of co-existence at the morning session on Sunday.

The relative capabilities of the East and West will be the subject of the opening session of the conference on Friday night. Dr. Walter W. Rostow, professor of economic history at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will speak.

Speakers at the Saturday morning session will be Colonel William R. Kintner, of the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania. Julian Kirkpatrick, inspector general of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Richard C. Holbert, CBS news correspondent.

Sunday speakers besides Bryan will be Stuart Hannon, assistant to the director of Radio Free Europe, and Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The conference is sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Northern California.

nia. Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, president emeritus of the University of California, is conference chairman.
